- Makar Sakranti, Lohri and Diamond Shape Day is on 13th January'20 [Monday]
The popular Indian festival "Makar Sankranti" is the first Indian festival falls in New Year which is dedicated to Sun. It's an important festival and celebrated almost everywhere in the country in myriad cultural forms and different names. Kite flying is traditionally observed as a part of this festival. Lohri is a popular winter Punjabi folk festival. It is celebrated to mark the end of peak winter, this festival is traditionally associated with the harvest of the rabi crops. At night, people gather around the bonfire and throw til, puffed rice & popcorns into the flames of the bonfire. Prayers are offered to the bonfire seeking abundance & prosperity.
Send your child in Punjabi dresses and send one small size kite for diamond shape day.
- English Poem Recitation Competition [class wise]
Poetry recitation is very important for children as it is a beautiful and effective way which facilitate the kids to express. So, here we are providing an open platform to our little poets to express their Poetic side by reciting a English poem.
Children will recite English rhyme and children can come in colourful attire in accordance with their Rhyme and can present props as well.
